Petition urges:

Keep the post office in Bethel village

By ALISON ALOISIO

A new Bethel Post Office should be a reality by late next summer, according to postal officials. But Brian Strickland, current post office landlord, hopes that will mean simply an expansion at his Main Street building. And scores of other residents say that if the post office is moved, it should be to another site in Bethel Village.

The Postal Service said a year ago post office 3,500 square feet of space if the whole first floor is used. He said the Postal Service needs at least 3,000 square feet. The current office occupies 2,000 square feet.

As for parking space, Strickland said about 20 spots in the rear of the building would be available. The current lease provides for four.

The building has been up for sale, and though Strickland said he is

The bid is expected to be awarded in March, with work to be completed in July or August, according to a USPS official.

it needed more space to handle increasing quantities of mail coming to the area. Plans were made to look for a new site.

Strickland said last week he could offer the whole first floor for expansion. Two businesses -- Telstar Video and Main Street Beauty -- currently occupy part of that floor.

"I'm willing to sit down and talk to them (the Postal Service) about it," Strickland said.

Beecher Doody, post office change coordinator, said last week the Postal Service plans in January to solicit bids for both a site and building construction or renovation.

"We would probably award the bid in March, and construction or renovation would be completed in July or August," he said.

Doody said he was aware of Strickland's interest in expanding on the existing site.

Strickland said he could offer the still actively trying to sell it, he expects any new owners would like to see the office remain in place.

So would much of Bethel, he said. "I've talked to people around town, and they want it to stay where it is," Strickland said.

Ruth Grover and Barbara Brown have been circulating a petition requesting that the office at least stay nearby. "It asks that it stay within the traditional village of Bethel," Grover said.

She said she has not counted signatures yet, as the petition is still in public places around town. But she said it has received strong support.

West Bethel still waiting

Doody said the issue of closing the West Bethel Post Office has yet to be decided at Postal Service Headquarters in Washington, D.C. But he said he expects the final decision will be in favor of closing.

Officials mum on chief's suspension

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Bethel Police Chief Dale Bellman has been suspended, but town officials are refusing to say why.

On Monday Town Manager Madeleine Henley confirmed that Bellman had been suspended, but she declined to say whether he was still being paid.

On Tuesday, however, sources close to the situation told The Citizen that the chief continues to draw his salary.

The reason for the suspension is still unknown. Bob Chadbourne, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, and town attorney Geoff Hole did not return phone calls Tuesday. Bellman himself was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

Bethel officials are apparently concerned about the confidentiality and procedural clauses in the Bethel Police Ordinance -- and about the potential for a lawsuit if they discuss the matter publicly or fail to follow the sequence of disciplinary steps set out in the ordinance.

Bellman joined the Bethel Police Dept. in 1989 and served as chief since March 1991.

His appointment as chief came after two previous chiefs of police -- Eric Wight and Brian Stowell -- had resigned after less than two years on the job.

Prior to that Bob Stearns had served as Bethel's police chief for 17 years. Stearns retired in 1987. He died the following year.

All-American Amy Hannon to be honored

Amy Hannon of Bethel will be honored at Telstar High School today after being named an All-American in college Division III field hockey. She is a senior at Clark University in Worcester, Mass., and a 1992 graduate of Telstar High School. She closed out her college career as Clark's fifth leading scorer. In her four seasons she scored 15 goals and added 29 assists for 59 career points. She was ranked second in career assists. Today's ceremony is at 1:45 p.m. at the gymnasium. The public is invited to attend.

Arsonist's match claims Bear River Valley landmark

By ALISON ALOISIO

Someone intentionally set the fire that gutted Newry's 180-year-old Poplar Tavern last week, according to a state fire marshal's office investigator.

The former resort hotel was engulfed in flames when firefighters arrived at about 9:45 Thursday night. The tavern, which was unoccupied, is located about six miles north of Newry Center on Route 26.

Investigator Robert Long said the fire had been set. Newry Fire Chief Tim Conkright said it appeared the fire started in the back of the house. Long and fellow investigator Daniel Small inspected the site on Friday.

Firefighters from Newry, Bethel, Greenwood, and Rumford fought the blaze into the early morning hours. Newry firemen were on the scene well into the day Friday.

Conkright said rooms in the very front of the building were still basically intact, but the rest of the structure was gutted.

"They did a good job knocking it (the fire) down," he said of the firefighters.

The tavern's current owners are Joseph and Gail Connor of Portland, Me., but the most recent owner was Thomas Strickland of Newry.

The Connors had the building up for sale at a price of $150,000. It was not insured.

The fire spread into the fire's surrounding area, and Sergeant Jennifer Mills of the fire marshal's office said anyone with information on the blaze is asked to call 252-1111.

"We still have a lot of work to do on this," she said.

History

The Poplar Tavern was believed to have been built by Isaac Smith about 1846, according to "Oxford County: A Guide to Its Historic Architecture" by Randall Bennett. The resort was designed to accommodate travelers from the Androscoggin valley through Grafton Notch to the Umbagog Lake area.

Its expansion and recreational activities are described in Carrie

'It's a tremendous loss. It was a landmark on that road. People would gauge distances in the area according to the nearness to the Poplar Tavern. Anyone with an appreciation of history will miss it.'

STAN HOWE, Director, Bethel Historical Society

Volunteers stocking the stacks at Telstar

By ALISON ALOISIO

Connie Vantour of West Bethel says she was "shocked" this fall when she learned of the lack of books and resources in the Telstar High School Library. So Vantour is asking community members to help out.

The library took a $30,000 cut to its budget following a $500,000 school budget reduction by voters this year. As a result, the facility has a high percentage of outdated books.

Librarian Linda Blackman is currently weeding out books with old -- and in many cases incorrect -- information. She expects that when she is done, the original stock of 10,000 books will be reduced to 5,000-6,000 usable ones. That leaves the library short of the 8,400 number recommended by the Maine State Library for Telstar's student enrollment.

The library also lacks audiovisual equipment, which Blackman says is needed for students, particularly those in special education.

NOVA BUILDING PROGRAM

To the Editor:

The NOVA Cooperative Board hears the Western Maine Alliance (Roxbury Taxpayers Association's) message -- "Don't spend on a new building for any reason." -- loud and clear. But it is advice the board cannot take and properly serve the 17 communities it represents.

So far, opposition to NOVA's plan to build on the Mountain Valley High School campus has been limited to one group representing, for the most part, citizens from one town with a specific concern: additional property taxes. Other individuals who share the association's concern have made their views clear, too.

The NOVA Cooperative Board has listened carefully, but decided to move forward with the building project. Too many other people support the project -- all of the business people, community leaders, and educators who developed NOVA 2000, the building plan the board is now putting in place. NOVA 2000 brought together people from all 17 towns to chart the future of local vocational education. For them, it is a matter of creating jobs that will cut the property taxes that worry the Taxpayers' Association so much.

NOVA is dedicated to preparing people for work through high school and community vocational education programs for adults. It is a job that has become increasingly difficult as the local and national economies have changed. Businesses want so much more from new employees today than even five years ago.

Employers used to hire "hands," but now must hire minds to guarantee product quality, control production costs, and respond to rapidly changing markets. What they want are new employees who not only know something about their businesses, but can prove they know how to gather information, solve problems, and grow on the job.

That's why so many local business people are quick to point out that our sons and daughters are not ready to go to work when they graduate from high school. Our children cannot contribute from day one, and no employer can afford the time to train them. NOVA's adult students face much the same problem. A lifetime of working with their hands does not count in shops where reading, writing, and arithmetic matter as much if not more than manual skills.

Why have we reached this point? Because it is so hard to keep up with the times. The old view that academic and vocational were two different things has been hard to shake. But we cannot afford any longer to prepare the best for college and the practical for work, and hope that the students in the middle will have learned enough to find their own way. The majority of our children will not attend college, and will graduate from high school knowing nothing about work. The unemployed adults NOVA serves are trapped, too. Even though they know how to work, they cannot compete without first mastering essential academic skills.

The men and women who wrote the NOVA 2000 plan have long known what to do. They have been telling the Cooperative Board for years, "Do both." Weave academics and job training together and local businesses can and will hire our sons and daughters.

To do that we must bring all NOVA students under one roof -- first. Then and only then can academic and vocational programs be linked together in the way area businesses demand.

Dwaine B. Crate
NOVA Director

TIME TO WORK TOGETHER

To the Editor:

The two-to-one approval of referendum voting for the SAD44 school budget came as no surprise to anyone. The media comments and talk about town leading to the $500,000 cut at the recent district budget meeting confirmed the voters' intentions. Now it is up to both the citizens of the district and the school community to work together to make sure that next year's referendum vote is held with all the facts.

Taxpayers cannot just vote yes or no without making a serious effort to understand the budget. They must attend and participate in budget explanation meetings, ask questions at school board meetings and of their local school board members, and read all newspaper articles and information sent out by the schools. In this way they will have a better idea why the amount of money budgeted is necessary and what it will provide.

The schools have to do a much better job in explaining the need for the budget requested. They cannot blame an uninterested public nor use past budget hearings that are poorly attended as examples of apathy. They must become more creative. This may take the form of holding more than one budget hearing in each town at different times of the day; sitting down with selectmen and others prior to forming a budget to get a read on the state of the economy and the people's ability to pay; using more newspaper inserts, articles, flyers, and information sent home with students; and opening up school board meetings to more public input. The school buildings must become open to the public and the public made to feel welcome during appropriate times. Remember, most voters attended school over 20 years ago and do not understand how school has changed and what the schools now have to do. Many of these changes directly affect the budget. Finally, schools have to demonstrate that their programs are working and that they are fulfilling their educational mission, philosophy, and goals established by the school board.

Education is a key to our success and in solving many of society's problems. It is a much better use of tax dollars and will save money in the future. Only an educated and informed citizenry can keep this great state and country of ours strong and healthy. People are not anti-education. They will support schools with their tax dollars if they aren't left out of the picture. Let's all work together to make this a reality.

DO THESE SIGNS GIVE YOU THE BLUES? The Bethel Sign Committee is considering whether to recommend that the town eliminate all Maine Department of Transportation directional business signs in town. Any such recommendation would have to be approved by the Planning Board, Board of Selectmen and -- ultimately -- town voters. MDOT would also have to approve the move, but the Transportation Department usually goes along with such requests. There are currently 45 such signs between Telstar and the village, according to a committee count, and many more can be expected as new businesses open in the village and Bethel Station. The cluster shown here is located just before the newly opened Bethel Station Parkway. As alternatives to the current signs, the committee is considering general directional signs (for example, "To Bethel Business District," "To Sunday River Recreational Area") and strategically placed kiosk or mall-type structures with listings for individual businesses. The Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce and the Bethel Business Association plan to send flyers to their members questioning what impact the complete removal of the MDOT signs would have on their businesses. The Sign Committee is also seeking public input. Comments can be sent to town planning assistant Nancy Schileper, Town Office, P.O. Box 108, Bethel, 04217. Or individual sign committee members would be happy to discuss the idea. The committee members are: Dennis Doyon, Stan Howe, Heidi James, Helene Merrill, Stuart Crocker, Donnie Kallin, Robin Zinchuk, Edie Okenquist and Hillary Allred.

GARGANTUAN, BLOVIATING MORAL MCCARTHYISM

To the Editor:

"I've got a little list, I've got a little list," twitters the Lord High executioner in a famous line of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Mikado," and indeed, these days who doesn't have one? Certainly not Michael Daniels, the citizen's erstwhile editor, who apparently is able to compile his own list of public enemies simply by virtue of their disagreement with him on any given issue.

Recently, Mr. Daniels took time out from his usual avocation of punishing Stan Howe and Carl Hansen for their support of mildly conservative causes in general and the Republican Party in particular to add the Reverend Linwood Hanson to his list of "smirking bigots." Reverend Hanson had had the effrontery to take offense at the heavy-handed way in which Mr. Daniels had entitled his letter in support of referendum question one, and asked in a meekly worded letter, to be permitted to correct the editor's apparent misinterpretation. The scornful ire and righteous indignation with which this suggestion was received by Mr. Daniels bring to mind Quintus Slide, the newspaperman in Trollope's "Phineas Redux," whose sole joy in life was to excommunicate his political enemies from reasonable public discourse by virtue of his withering editorial rhetoric.

Suffice it to say that in this generous mood Mr. Daniels sat himself down to tinkle out his editorial response to Reverend Hanson's brazen suggestion that he might have been mistaken in the interpretation which he had placed on the pastor's earlier letter. In his indignation the oracular Mr. Daniels continues his editorial bloviations against Reverend Hanson for fully half a page strewn with misapplied logic and overstuffed sentences before he puffs to a dubious conclusion. While he refrains from saying that Reverend Hanson is, in fact, a "smirking bigot" (Perhaps he feels that the generous protections of New York Times v. Sullivan only go so far), he implies that the sentiments expressed by Reverend Hanson amount to "the convenient mask behind which the smirking face of bigotry hides" and that his language may "serve implicitly to condone the use of violence against homosexuals."

It would be unproductive to retread the road by which Mr. Daniels and others less talented than he have arrived at these less than overwhelming conclusions. Essentially the case against Reverend Hanson and any other who might have had the bad sense to express any opinion in favor of the recent referendum question consists in applying the most sinister interpretation to the figurative language in which such support is invariably couched. Nowhere in the entire length and breadth of his gargantuan editorial odyssey does Mr. Daniels emit any new information or any enlightening thoughts that would yield any conclusions more astounding than his own wish to smite Reverend Hanson for having the audacity to challenge an apparently unassailable editorial choice.

Given the triviality of Mr. Daniels' conclusions as well as the lack of any compelling evidence to support them, readers may question why he chose this precise opportunity to secrete so much mental fluid about this particular issue. The answer may be that nothing so churns the entrails of the self appointed brahmins of the professional democracy priesthood as much as the rancid taste of a little real democracy. Since one of the entrees on this year's political menu appeared to be a generous helping of authentic popular rebellion his outburst can perhaps be ascribed to his involuntary lurch for the lavatory.

Having worked himself into a lather over the transgressions of Reverend Hanson and others with whom he cannot lower himself to see eye to eye, Mr. Daniels might do well to remember that people can have legitimate philosophical disagreements with him without being either bigots or Nazis. Simply because the First Amendment protects him from the retribution which might be his due if the laws of libel were still in force does not mean that he should use his editorial authority as a bludgeon to silence his critics even where they may be less clever and articulate than he. In his piece he warns about the dangers of demonizing rhetoric. It is a warning which he himself would do well to heed. Moral McCarthyism did not stop with the death of the Wisconsin senator. It certainly appears to be rearing its head in the editorial corner of the Bethel Citizen.

Andrew Benson
Athens

Editor replies: We thank our Athenian correspondent for sharing his views -- that's why The Citizen's opinion page is here. For the record, however, we must correct two minor factual lapses. 1) We are not yet "erstwhile." The day will no doubt come when that term is appropriate, but for the moment we are still twitting and bloviating along. Might we modestly suggest that Mr. Benson check his dictionary to see what the word "erstwhile" actually means? 2) While we hold in the highest regard those who choose that particular lifestyle option, we must report that we do not ourselves sit down to tinkle.

--MRD

THEY IGNORE THE NEW TESTAMENT

To the Editor:

Since I suspect that the editor receives flack from readers, I want to express my appreciation for the editorial response of "MRD" to the letter of the Reverend Linwood Hanson in the 8 Nov. edition on the subject of "perversion."

It is striking that when some Christian clergy and laity want to express their displeasure with those with whom they do not agree, they turn for justification of their views to the violence and gore perpetrated by the tribal god pictured in the Old Testament, as if Jesus, with his more exalted understanding of God, had never existed. How can they reconcile their support for bigotry with Jesus' teaching that we should love our neighbors as ourselves? Jesus associated with the despised publicans (tax collectors), the woman accused of adultery, and others treated as outcasts by bigots of his day. Jesus treated them with compassion and love. A far cry from the attitudes of those who urged Mainers to vote yes on Question No. 11.

HAPPY ENDING: BONNIE'S BACK

To the Editor:

Thank you for publishing my "Bring Back My Bonnie to Me" letter to the editor on Oct. 18. I found Bonnie!

After receiving many calls suggesting Bonnie had been sighted in the Andover area, we finally heard from a resident who described a black cat with white markings and a pink collar. I remembered that Bonnie when last seen was wearing a pink flea collar. My Andover friend walked the South Arm Rd. morning and night with her dogs hoping Bonnie would see them and respond. Finally at 8:30 one night last week, she drove up to the last camp on that road before Richardson Lake, called Bonnie and she came. She is now at home with Clyde as they slowly but surely realize they are brother and sister. Both cats survived the wild in very good condition. Thank heaven for name tags. Clyde's saved him and although Bonnie lost hers, her pink flea collar helped us home in on her. Some say don't put a collar on a cat lest he catch it and choke. A vet told me my good luck showed a good reason for putting collars on pets. (My Andover friend has now lost her neutered male, Grayson. Call 392-1052.)

Lost hunter found safe

BETHEL--An 18-year-old hunter was found safe Monday night after spending the day lost in the woods. Vince Roberts of East Bethel was hunting in the area of Route 26, Vernon Street, and Rabbit Road when he got lost, according to spokesman Paul Reynolds of the Maine Warden Service. Roberts went off to follow a deer track at about 7:30 a.m. and became separated from his father, Bill. At about 5:30 p.m. wardens Norm Lewis and Kevin Prodzinski picked up his tracks, and found him around 8:30 p.m., Reynolds said. "He was in good shape -- a little cold," said Reynolds. Volunteers also aided in the search.

Gazebo issues need clarification

BETHEL--The board of selectmen won't authorize the use of the new Bethel Gazebo on the Town Common until it is complete and complies with the Americans with Disabilities Act guidelines. They plan to meet with volunteers who helped with the construction to discuss its completion. "I think it's just time to clarify the end game," said selectman Dutch Dresser. "It would seem to me the key question is safety." They also discussed ownership of the structure. Selectman John Thurston said that although the town in effect owns it, it would be a good idea to put an article on the warrant for next year's Town Meeting, asking voters to accept ownership. The issue of charging fees for private use will be researched by town clerk Merton Brown.

MDOT, Newry officials meet today

NEWRY--Selectmen were scheduled to meet today with MDOT engineers and Sunday River Skiway officials to discuss a temporary traffic configuration at the Sunday River/Skiway Access roads intersection. Selectman chairman Steve Wight said Tuesday the town has found a traffic light, and Sunday River will front the money for it. But because the intersection will not be laid out in its final configuration until spring, any signal set-up that is installed now would be only for the winter. A stop sign was placed on the Sunday River Road at the intersection last week.

Section of Rt. 113 closed

The Maine Department of Transportation has closed a section of Route 113, known as the Evans Notch Highway, for the winter as of Monday, Nov. 20. The road was closed due to early winter storms and normally closes around Dec. 1. The road is gated on the north end near the White Mountain National Forest boundary, just south of Gilead. The southern gate is located at the Basin Recreation Area. This is the third winter that this section of Route 113 will be closed. The road, which passes over Evans Notch, is not maintained for winter use, except for a portion which is groomed for snowmobiles. The gates will be opened when the road is clear in the early spring, according to WMNF officials.

Referendum petition in SAD17

HARRISON--A petition drive is underway in SAD17 to change the school budget vote from a district meeting to a referendum. The drive was started by Waterford selectmen following another increase in the town's SAD17 tax. About 1,000 signatures are needed.

SAD15 part of national study

GRAY--SAD15 has been chosen to help in the development of a national model for improving communication between schools and communities. The Institute for Educational Leadership and Public Agenda chose eight districts nationwide to participate. They will hold "town meetings" next year to discuss how to improve schools. "We are looking to see if this approach makes for better communications and a better dialogue," said Jacqueline Danxberger of IEL. SAD15 has had school budgets voted down multiple times over the past three years.

Maine youth violence and drug stats

WATERVILLE--A state study on school violence and substance abuse made the following findings: 17.5 percent of Maine students in grades 6-12 have been afraid to attend school because of violence there; 40 percent of Maine youth have been in a physical fight during the past year; more grade 12 students report regularly smoking marijuana (35 percent) than report regularly smoking cigarettes (29 percent). The study was conducted by the State Safe and Drug-free Schools and Communities Task Force.

Thanksgiving gas prices drop

PORTLAND--Motorists traveling this Thanksgiving will find the cost of gasoline down sharply, as prices have taken the biggest one-month drop since October 1994, according to the American Automobile Association. AAA's monthly Fuel Gauge Report shows the nationwide average price of self-serve regular unleaded gasoline is $1.123 per gallon, down 3.1 cents in one month and 4.2 cents lower than a year ago. Mid-grade and premium self-serve also fell 3 cents, to $1.218 and $1.299, respectively.

New housing may help shelters

AUGUSTA--Voter approval of a $4 million state bond to provide housing for mental health consumers may have a ripple effect of reducing some of the pressure facing the state's homeless shelters. Work will begin immediately to identify potential areas of Maine in which to locate up to 250 apartment units or residential treatment beds to provide affordable housing for mental health consumers. No one knows exactly what percentage of homeless shelter users are mental health clients. Estimates range from 30 to more than 50 percent. The new housing targets consumers being discharged from mental health institutes in Augusta and Bangor under a court-ordered consent decree.

Hotline promotes reformulated gas

ARLINGTON, Va.--Mainers can realize reductions of almost 25,000,000 pounds of pollutants by using reformulated gasoline, according to the NRG Hotline. "These are some of the same pollutants that add to acid rain and can react with other chemicals and cause crop damage. RFG can have both health and economic benefits," said director David Gagner. The Clean Air Act requires certain areas of the country to reduce smog and improve the air we breathe. States have the option of using cleaner-burning RFG or adopting a more intrusive method designed to reduce air pollution, Gagner said. The restrictions include banning wood-burning stoves, imposing even/odd driving days, and requiring mandatory carpooling.

Net results

NASHVILLE, Tenn.--Latest Internet statistics: two-thirds of users are male, and 53 percent are between 16 and 34; users spend an average of 5 hours, 28 minutes a week on line; about two-thirds log on while at work; sending and receiving mail is the top use of the Internet -- about half use it to send messages. The statistics were gathered in a study by A.C. Nielsen of 24 million adults who use the Internet in the U.S. and Canada.

Air quality improving

WASHINGTON--The number of people who live with dirty air has declined by more than a third since 1990, but 90 million Americans still breathe air that flunks federal health standards, the government said. The Environmental Protection Agency reported last week that 33 regions, many of them metropolitan areas, failed to meet federal standards for ozone, the major component of smog. But EPA officials said the latest results in the agency's annual air quality report found a continuing trend toward cleaner air. Five years ago more than 91 regions -- with a population of 140 million -- had smog levels considered to be unhealthy at least some time during the year. "In the last five years, our efforts to protect some public health have resulted in 50 million more Americans who are now breathing far healthier air," EPA administrator Carole Browner said. Portland failed to meet the standard, with a "moderate" pollution rating.

From the Bethel Police log:

Snowball incident snowballs

On Nov. 19 at 7:30 p.m. a West Bethel resident reported several individuals throwing snowballs at his vehicle. He said he chased the subjects to a home above the Mountain View Store, and was signaled to enter the house. The complainant said he asked one subject if he had thrown snowballs. He (the complainant) said he was then grabbed, put up against a wall, and told he had no right to be accusing someone of throwing snowballs. He was then told to leave. Police spoke with the subjects and told them to stop throwing snowballs, and to ask people to leave, rather than grabbing them. The complainant said he would press charges if further mischief occurred.

Thursday, Nov. 16

At 10:51 p.m. a Sudbury Inn employee reported a customer was asked to leave the pub, but when escorted out he assaulted the complainant and struck the door, breaking glass and leaving a large hole in the door. The employee said he told the man to leave several times but he refused. Police arrived and searched the area, but did not find the subject. The complainant was asked to provide a statement of what took place. On Nov. 17 the subject, Johnathan W. McGurn, was served for assault, criminal mischief, and criminal trespass.

Friday, Nov. 17

At 1:17 a.m. a subject was stopped for going the wrong way on a one-way street (Sunset Road). He failed a field sobriety test and was arrested. The passenger allowed the operator to drive, and he was also arrested. Both were taken to the Oxford County Sheriff's office. The driver, Timothy A. Hart of Bryant Pond, was given a balloon test, and was held in lieu of bail and charged with OUI and civil possession of drugs. The passenger, Kevin C. Smith of West Paris, was charged with allowing the illegal operation of a motor vehicle, providing a place for a minor to consume alcohol, OUI, licensee impaired while accompanying learner, operating a motor vehicle while consuming liquor, possession of drug paraphernalia and civil possession of marijuana.

Saturday, Nov. 18

At 11:35 p.m. the Newry plow crew reported a small red pickup truck was operating extremely erratically on Route 2. Police observed the subject leaving the Irving station. An Oxford County Sheriff's deputy and the Bethel officer stopped the vehicle. A license check showed the subject was under suspension. Jason P. Grimes of Bethel was arrested and taken to the Oxford County jail, where he was held in lieu of bail. A check of the truck revealed a six-pack of beer. Grimes was charged with operating after suspension and the illegal transport of alcohol.

Sunday, Nov. 19

At 3:16 a.m. a Bethel police officer was patrolling Route 26 near Telstar when two deer ran into the road in front of the cruiser. The officer could not evade them and one of the deer was struck. The grill and right front turn signal assembly were broken. Damage: $250.

CLAUDE GODDARD FOUND DEAD IN ANDROSCOGGIN

Mysterious Tragedy Discovered at Cemetery—Body Not Recovered—Divers Working

The Chevrolet truck of Claude A. Goddard was found Wednesday afternoon where it had been driven over the bank of the Androscoggin River at Riverside Cemetery some time the night before. The hood and part of the cab were submerged, with both doors open, and Mr. Goddard's hat was found about 25 feet downstream. The current of the river at this point is swift and the bank has been protected from its effects by dumping large quantities of stone, and the car was resting upon these submerged rocks. It appeared that the truck had been driven into the cemetery through the upper gate, which had been left open. This was discovered Wednesday morning but the tracks were not followed to the river bank. Evidently the truck was not going rapidly when it pitched over the steep incline, for no glass was broken in the crash. Efforts were made Wednesday afternoon and evening to discover the body without success. Thursday forenoon the body was brought to the surface at the eddy a few rods below the point where the truck entered the water, but it was lost in the rapid current before it could be lifted into the boat. Further attempts to locate the body during the day and this (Friday) morning have been unavailing. Divers arrived this forenoon and are beginning work this afternoon.

Claude A. Goddard was born in Bethel Feb. 17, 1890, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz A. Goddard. He graduated from Gould Academy in 1910 and studied several years at Bowdoin College and the Maine Medical School. He served in the World War, and since that time has lived here. He has been engaged in farming and stock raising and has carried on a trucking business.

The nickname "Happy" or "Hap," which became his during school-days, has followed him through life and is indicative of his naturally happy disposition and quiet sunny humor. His tragic passing is felt deeply by the entire community.

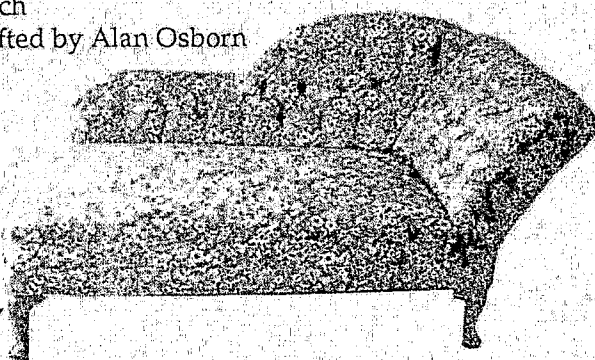

Mr. Goddard is survived by his mother, with whom he lived, and three brothers: George of Ashland, N. H.; Gard of Norway; and Robert of Bethel.

THE POPLAR TAVERN was a popular resort destination in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. The annex known as the Clubhouse (at left of complex) was torn down in the 1940s. A tennis court and bandstand (foreground) were across the Bear River from the hotel. (Photo courtesy Bethel Historical Society)

Wight's "A History of Newry": In the early 1880s some of the guests formed an organization and purchased the property, giving it the name "Bear River Club House. This was for many years a popular resort for vacationists from Portland, New York and Philadelphia. A new building was annexed and the club for many years accommodated approximately seventy-five guests.

They were people who loved rural life and rural people, and the natives looked forward to their return each summer. They participated in church and community affairs, contributing much to the social and cultured life. The fireworks provided each July Fourth were a thrilling experience for the children of the town.

Mountain climbing, trout fishing, picnics and hay rack rides were among the recreational activities. A suspension bridge was built across Bear River to a field where tennis, baseball, croquet and other games were enjoyed.

In 1895, according to Bennett, a four-and-a-half story addition was built and connected to the original structure with covered walkways.

It featured a heavy oak-floored dance hall on the second floor. The hotel was advertised as being able to accommodate 65 guests, and also offered tennis courts and a billiard hall, according to "Newry Profiles" by Paula Wight.

As automobiles became popular in the 20th century, fewer people made long stops at the resort. It changed hands several times. During ownership by Sam Smith in the 1940s, the annex (known as the Clubhouse) was torn down. Cabins that had been built behind the hotel were also moved away.

Bethel Historical Society director Dr. Stanley Howe mourned the tavern's passing.

"It's a tremendous loss. It was a landmark on that road. People would gauge distances in the area according to the nearness to the Poplar Tavern," he said. "Anyone with an appreciation of history will miss it."

F.O.B. (FRIEND OF BEAN)—Karen Bean, Telstar Middle School English teacher, is one of 90 teachers nationwide who earned national certification for her teaching skills. She went to Washington recently for a symposium for National Board Certified Teachers. The National Board is an independent, nongovernmental organization that establishes rigorous standards for what accomplished teachers should know and be able to do, and offers a voluntary national certificate. Teachers who achieve the certification must demonstrate their knowledge and skills through an extensive series of assessments, including portfolios of student work, interviews, videotapes, and essays. Of 230 teachers attempting the certification, 90 received it. She was also one of 12 teachers from that group named to the Standard Setting Panel to define accomplished teaching as measured by the assessment. Bean attended a White House reception as part of the symposium.

Library

who need supplements to reading as a way of learning. Vautour, along with Gwyneth Bohr and school board member Wende Gray, got together with Blackman this fall to discuss the library's needs, and see if they could help.

"Good enough" isn't good enough any more," Vautour said, referring to comments she heard at the school budget meeting in July. She said several citizens said what had been good enough for them in school is good enough for today's students.

"The basics are still important, but they're not enough anymore," she said. "The answers are no longer available only in books. We know our own learning is reinforced through all our senses. Critical information is stored after hearing words, seeing pictures, and touching a keyboard, as well as reading."

So Vautour has gone to community groups looking for funds to go toward purchases of audio-visual equipment, as well as books.

"The Pleasant Valley Grange (in West Bethel) is planning to run an auction at the Grange in December or January to benefit the library," she said.

She's also looking for donations of blank VCR tapes. The library can send them off to have educational programming copied.

Vautour also visited a Bethel senior citizens' group this fall in search of volunteers to help with clerical work in the library.

"Since there isn't money to computerize the catalogue system, the cards have to be updated," she said. Blackman appreciates the help. She doesn't have a particular fundraising goal in mind, but says money donations would let her go right to the heart of the library's needs.

"Anything we get is going to be a success," she said. She said about $600 dollars has been donated so far.

Additional resources would help frustrated students trying to do research. Junior Amy Taylor had trouble finding material on solar power for a physics paper.

She said the school's encyclopedias are not recent enough to provide updated information, and she could not find any science resource books, either.

"It left me hanging. I do good work, and I try hard," she said.

Vautour hopes community members will try hard, too.

"If we can offer time and raise money to supplement the sagging budget, we can make a difference," she said.

(Vautour, under the pen name, Constance Broadbent, is the Citizen's West Bethel correspondent.)

Drug survey to be discussed

Dr. Robert Q. Dana, director of Substance Abuse Services at the University of Maine in Orono, will be at Telstar High School's Library on Thursday, Dec. 7, at 7 p.m. to lead a discussion regarding the results of the Regional Partnership's 1995 Community Drug and Alcohol Survey conducted this past June. Dr. Dana will answer questions about the survey results and will solicit audience feedback concerning community values with a view to the future.

The survey, titled "Attitudes and Behaviors Related to Use of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Other Drugs," is divided into three sections: adult perceptions of alcohol and other drug use; adult use of alcohol, other drugs and related experience; and direction for community education. The survey was developed by Regional Partnership volunteers with the expertise of Rodney Abbott. One-thousand surveys were mailed out in June in a random sample to residents living in the greater Bethel area. This is the second time the survey has been administered in the area.

The forum participants will utilize the 1995 results and the comparison 1993 results to plan, develop, and implement substance abuse prevention programs in the greater Bethel area.

The forum is being hosted by the staff and volunteers of the Regional Partnership and the Western Regional Council on Alcoholism. Everyone is welcome.

EMPTY SHELVES—Friends of the Telstar Library are seeking donations to help replace outdated material. Volunteer Connie Vautour of West Bethel, here holds a 1975 student guide to taking the college SAT test. Gwyneth Bohr and Wende Gray of Bethel are working with Vautour. Additional volunteers, including Verna Thayer, Marna McGinniss, Barbara Ripley and Jean Taber, also help with clerical work in the library. Vautour said more volunteers are welcome, and are asked to contact librarian Linda Blackman at Telstar.

Bethel Town Office

Here is a short story about a successful volunteer effort. As you may know, the Town of Bethel recently held a household hazardous waste collection day. Bethel's participation in the collection day, sponsored by Androscoggin Valley of Government (AVCOG), was completely coordinated by volunteers. These individuals went to the preliminary AVCOG meetings, distributed educational materials, were available for preregistration, answered questions and topped this all off with a Saturday morning spent in the rain.

The hazardous waste collection day took place on Oct. 28. In spite of heavy rains, the collection was a success. Twenty-four households participated and nobody was turned away. The cost to safely dispose of these dangerous materials was $1,356.

A wide range of materials were dropped off. It was reported that the following items were observed: paint, varnish, shellac, stain, turpentine, paint remover, adhesive, degreaser, gasoline, antifreeze, oil, roofing/foundation tar, car wax/polish, insecticide, herbicide, furniture polish, spot remover, muriatic acid, and assorted chemicals.

What is the next step? It is our responsibility as both individuals and as a community to safely dispose of our waste. It begins with education and in the local store before said materials are purchased. The necessity and amount should be seriously considered. Are there products that can be substituted which are less hazardous? If not, leftovers should be stored in original containers and never mixed until they can be disposed properly.

On behalf of the residents of Bethel, I would like to extend admiration and thanks to the efforts of these volunteers. Please join them by becoming "silent partners" in this ongoing project by handling these wastes in the safest and most responsible way.

Locke Mills

by Lorraine Mills

Kathy Mason, Chieftan, and Lorraine Mills were in North Windham, Saturday, attending a Christian Writers Seminar by Grant Swank, Jr., pastor of the Windham Church of the Nazarene.

After the deluge of the storm of two weeks ago, last week's storm seemed like a non-event with miserable driving but not much else. My pines didn't even give a moan, which was O.K. by me. I haven't got all of the branches picked up from the time before.

I understand Bob Chedige is home from his recent surgery at Stephens Memorial Hospital and is doing fine. I'm sure the maturity is hard to handle for someone who works as hard as Bob does, but we all hope he will do as he's supposed to so he will come back to the store and garage feeling 100-percent.

Debbie and Owen Brown invited me to supper Wednesday night. I certainly enjoyed the meal and a chance to see the latest fish, and it goes without saying that I always enjoy their company.

At last, what I see is an unbiased look at the hype surrounding Question One written by Mike Brown. There was a lot of misinformation coming out of both sides, and one of the problems I see with that is that it only further polarizes people and that is sad. The last thing this country needs is "ethnic cleansing," which happens when one can't disagree agreeably.

Ann Fitzmorris went with me to Rumford Friday morning. It was my second trip in two days (I know, for those of you who work there that's a drop in the bucket), as the dog, Lucy, and I bumped heads, only hers broke my glasses. All in all she's been an expensive proposition.

What a November we have been having! The weather has been less than desirable.

Linda Tyler was over this week and took Emma Billings to the eye doctor's in Lewiston.

Roland Lord called on Emma Billings on Monday evening. Errol Silver celebrated his third birthday on Sunday afternoon. Those attending were Robert and Ruby Silver, Mac, Tammy, Jason, and Bridget Billings, Louise Chapman, Kara Jacques, Billy, Tammy, and Austri Silver. Cake, ice cream and presents were enjoyed.

I am glad to see Norma Davis recovering well after her hospital stay. She would like to thank everyone for the cards, flowers and well wishes.

Herschel Abbott has been having some field work done by Ed Gammann.

On Thursday, Sue Silver took Errol and Bridget Billings out to lunch and bowling in Rumford.

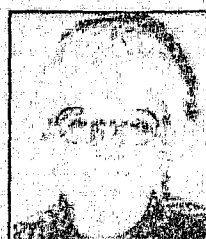

There will be a hymn sung at the Pinhook Meeting House on Nov. 24 at 7 p.m. Everyone is invited.

More fund raising is underway, and we will be selling wrapping paper for future upkeep and removal.

Those involved in winter sports for Telstar are Michelle McInnis, cross-country ski team; Jason Billings, cross-country ski team; and Allyson Jacques, varsity basketball.

Mandy McInnis was home over the weekend for a family get-together at her parents' home.

Been interesting weather for the past week, a lot of rain and some snow. A lot of water is going down the River and over the fields.

It is sad to see the beautiful old buildings with history like Poplar Tavern destroyed. It would be great if someone looked into its past with dates and chronicles and wrote a story.

Backstreeters were without electricity for up to 58 hours. Finally Public Service of New Hampshire was called in and enlightened residents. Many people had experiences that they will not forget, including being submerged in floodwaters in Gratton Notch.

The Ladies Aid supper last Saturday was very well attended.

Steven Lavalley was on the honor roll for the first term. Physical education has instituted an honor roll based on following and executing instructions. Upton students making the first term honor roll included Steven Lavalley, Sam Grondin, Courtney Lavalley and Jessica Lavalley.

Donald (Tucky) Jackson shot a bear this past week. Lucky hunters getting deer from this area are: Biron Inman, Duane Ryerson, Ed Haskell and Craig Ryerson.

Laurene Appleby is a great-grandmother again. Her granddaughter, Heather Dow gave birth to a baby boy recently. Laurene now has four great-grandchildren. Shelly Hinkley had a baby boy on Halloween night.

Erlon and Maude Alice have purchased PrimeStar and are really enjoying all the programs they couldn't get before.

We were saddened this week by the death of Donald Cox. Don has been sick for a number of years and put up a good fight. He leaves many brothers and sisters and other close relatives and a son, Donald Jackson. He will be missed by all who knew him. Our sympathy goes out to everyone.

Thanksgiving and Christmas are right around the corner and the store is always busy. I was in Shop 'n Save in Oxford lately and as always get to see friends I haven't seen for a long time. One of them was Marion Dillingham and her daughter, Janice. Marion looked real good, the last time I saw her she was in the hospital. Another friend was Lempi Cyr, who I always like to chat with. She is doing fine after her operation earlier this year.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society reports that in November a party was held for supporters of the Historical Society. That evening the monthly meeting featured a presentation by Herschel Abbott on a "lost" Woodstock cemetery. The society has a fine museum with exceptional exhibits. One can find everything from furniture to old photos there. James and Elizabeth Knights gave some information on the schools to the society.

How about the weather we've been having. We lucked out and only lost our power for a short time.

Hope our luck holds out for other storms. My daughter, Kellie Hart and her two children, Sarah and Jessie visited for a while one evening while waiting for their lights to come back on.

Quote of the Week: "I've learned that I shouldn't go grocery shopping when I'm hungry."

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson

Not much news from here this past week. On Nov. 8, the Planning Board met to discuss a couple of permits.

On Nov. 9, there was a Stoneham Church meeting with eight members attending. Secretary's and Treasurer's reports were presented and accepted. It was reported that the sills under the vestry are done. The church roof is done. We're waiting for the new furnace to be put in now, and now another repair job has to be done -- the sill and door on the other side of the vestry needs work done on it. It's always something, isn't it, that needs to be done -- just like home! The new steps and rails to the vestry were done by Gus Fillebrown. These were badly needed. I have been told that there has been a good response to the letter that was sent out to the members and friends of the church, for which they thank you. It's nice to know that people care and make that extra little effort. The meeting was adjourned and the next one is planned for Jan. 11 at the home of Mary Grover at 7:15 p.m.

On Nov. 14, there was a Republican supper and meeting at the Second Congregational Church for all Oxford County Republicans. Also on Nov. 14 there was a Snowmobile meeting at the Stoneham Fire Station. We didn't attend either of these meetings so can't report on them. The bad weather kept a lot of people home that evening.

Jim Morrison is still under a doctor's care.

Nov. 15 (today), Gladys Kilgore fell at her home and was taken to the hospital for treatment for a deep cut on her arm but seems to be doing okay now, and she is at home.

I think and hope everyone has their electric power back by now. Some people in the area around here were without it all day and night on Sunday and on Monday. We were lucky and didn't lose it here. We have so much to be thankful for -- each one of us for various things and each in different ways.

Wishing you readers and your families a Happy and Bounteous Thanksgiving.

North Newry

by
Gil Seely

The Newry Mothers Club met Nov. 13 at 7:30 p.m. at the Town Building. It was opened with an Indian prayer by acting president Gil Seely, secretary-treasurer, Olive Anderson read the notes of the last meeting, brought the finances up to date and reported on sending cards to the shut-ins. Mystery prizes were won by Olive Anderson and Karlene Bachelder. It was voted to have a potluck Christmas Supper at the next meeting, Dec. 11, at 6 p.m. It was also voted to turn over to the Recreation Committee the Christmas tree lighting ceremony -- more on this later. The club's cookbooks are still on sale at $3 each; anyone wishing to purchase some can contact Nancy Wight or Karlene Bachelder. There was some discussion on the Thanksgiving baskets. Karlene read a poem on "Don't quit" and Gil read a closing thought. Coffee and goodies were enjoyed and a lotto game played during the social hour.

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark and Gil Seely of the "Newry Bowling Gang" ventured forth on a stormy day to go to the Oxford Lanes, Rumford, to do some bowling. Karlene was high on the overall scores, with a single of 119 and high on the triples, beating Gil by seven pins. She had five spares and Gil had four spares.

Happy Birthday to Mary Morin, Peggy Wight and Claire Bachelder Romano. "Do anything that brings a smile. Makes you laugh or suits your style. Do anything that warms your heart or makes a happy memory start! Do anything you want to do. Just be happy all year through!"

"Briefly" -- Two women were coming out of a church bingo game and the conversation went something like this: "How much did you lose?"

"Fifty dollars."

"Fifty dollars, that's a lot of money."

"Yes it is, but here's the way I look at it. It's gone to the Lord, so to Hell with it."

Greenwood City

by Colista Morgan

Our City of at least forty homes was surely dark for fifty hours after the weekend storm.

I lit one kerosene lamp, then had to light a second to find the first. Then I had one more. With my carry-around flashlight, I began to wonder how I studied and did my school work with only one lamp.

We all realized what good neighbors we have. Someone kept in touch with me at all times to be sure I was all right. I was better off than some, for I had a wood fire and gravity-feed water.

One neighbor helped his friends with his generator by going from house to house.

I did lose a lot of food, but that can be replaced.

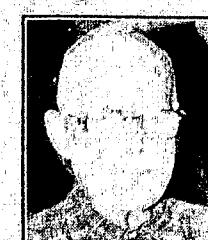

I went to Bethel to the Moses Mason House with Milton and Eleanor Inman last week to see the exhibit given by the Bethel and Greenwood Historical Societies. It was very interesting.

David came alone to the farm on Sunday.

Without my usual column I have little to write about.

Howdy, friends. What a weekend this has been. It is now 9:48 a.m. Tuesday and our electricity just came on a short time ago, so I'll try to type off my news, if the power will stay on. Somehow these electric typewriters don't work worth a hoot without electricity.

Peggy and I attended Franklin Grange in Bryant Pond last Monday evening. The attendance was small, but we had a very good time. We voted to have a potluck supper before each of our meetings in December, January, February and March. This helps get us headed for home a little earlier after the meeting. Peggy and I gave our reports about attending State Grange.

Tuesday evening, we attended Oxford Pomona, which was held in the Norway Grange Hall. Norway Grange put on a real good supper for us and we all enjoyed it. The attendance at this meeting was small due to the weather.

When we got up Wednesday morning we had had just a sprinkling of snow. Peggy went down street to have an oil change, new oil filter and lubrication done on her car. She also has an odd tapping noise in her car, but to date nobody has any knowledge of what is causing it, but they know it isn't motor problems.

While Peggy was gone I tackled making small cookies to help with the Cookie Walk for the Craft and Food Sale on Saturday. I ended up making peanut butter and ginger snap cookies in the forenoon and then made a batch of walnut-raisin cookies in the afternoon. Peggy had already made two kinds of cookies for the sale.

After doing our shopping on Thursday forenoon, Peggy took me to eat at the Chef's Table. We saw Ivy Bartlett there so joined her and had a good time talking over bygone days. I hadn't seen Ivy for a long time and was glad to meet up with her once more. She's been a good friend for years.

My forenoon on Friday was pretty well taken up making yeast rolls to sell at the West Paris Grange sale the next day. I made two batches, which totaled about five dozen, and am ashamed to say that it took me all of the forenoon to do it. I never was a very speedy character and have seemed to slow down even more with old age.

Friday afternoon, Peggy went up and unlocked the West Paris Grange Hall so that those wishing to do so could move some of their goodies in and start to get their displays ready for the Saturday sale.

Saturday was the day of the sale and we were up, had our breakfast, and were soon headed for West Paris Grange Hall to start the heat. Another Granger was there and had already turned on the heat. When all of the exhibitors got there, tables were all laden with an excellent variety of goods for sale. People kept coming and the sale was very successful considering everything. Having a Cookie Walk was something new, but it went over great and will certainly be repeated at the sale next spring.

Audrey Hadley, Mary Lovejoy and Kathleen Holden attended a meeting at the home of Earl and Amy Andrews on the Allen Hill Road on Wednesday evening.

There will be a dance at West Paris Grange on Dec. 2, with more of that good music by the Richard Felt Orchestra. Proceeds from this dance will benefit "Christmas for Kids," a very worthwhile cause. Let's all attend the dance or help with donations. Thank you.

There will be a Thanksgiving Day Dinner at West Paris Grange Hall on Nov. 23, from noon until 3 p.m. Adults will pay $5 and children under 12 will pay $2.50. Proceeds from this fine dinner will go to benefit the Mollycodd Sportsman Club. They use much of the money to help some of the needy families, so this also is a very worthy cause. This gives you an opportunity to have a good Thanksgiving dinner without all the hard work and hassle of preparing it at home.

NOTES FROM

Adult Education

The SAD44 Adult Learning Center has added a new service for adults with language-based learning disabilities using the Wilson Reading System. Learning Center instructors Lee Dolleman and Jeanette Baldrige recently completed Wilson Reading System training and are implementing the method in working with adult learners who have difficulty reading.

The Wilson Reading System is a highly structured program based on the Orton-Gillingham method, teaching word attack for the decoding and encoding process of English. The system develops the students' phonological awareness and directly teaches the structure of language using multisensory instructional methods that keep student interest high and achieve immediate gains. Learners will work individually with an instructor.

Developed especially for use with older learners, the Wilson Reading System incorporates word lists, sentences, activities and stories with themes appropriate for adults. The system has been used with great success by adult education programs and Literacy Volunteers. The Adult Learning Center staff is excited about bringing this program to adult learners in SAD44 during the day and evening hours that the center is in operation.

Anyone interested in talking with the Adult Learning Center staff about the Wilson Reading System program should call the Adult Education office for an appointment (824-2780).

GED Pre-testing is available on a continuous basis at the Adult Learning Center on Philbrook Street in Bethel, and at the Andover Elementary School. The center is open on Monday through Thursday mornings from 9 a.m. to noon, and on Tuesday and Wednesday nights from 5:30 to 8:30. The Andover GED session is on Thursday nights from 6 to 8 p.m.

The GED, or High School Equivalency Exam, is widely accepted by post-secondary institutions and employers. The test is sponsored by the American Council on Education and is normed on a population of high school seniors. Each year more than 750,000 adults take the GED tests and about 450,000 obtain high school credentials based on the tests. About one in seven high school diplomas issued in the United States each year is based on the GED.

The GED consists of five tests in the areas of writing, social studies, science, literature and the arts, and mathematics. The tests are usually given over a period of several weeks. The Official Practice Tests allow prospective GED students to determine their level of readiness to take the actual exam. The SAD44 adult education program has a wide variety of materials for students to use in brushing up for the test.

Further information is available from the Adult Education office. Anyone interested in an appointment for pre-testing in Bethel or in Andover should call 824-2780.

The Maine Course, the state-approved training for servers of alcoholic beverages, will be held at Telstar High School on Monday, Dec. 4 and Wednesday, Dec. 6, from 6 to 9 p.m., co-sponsored by Central Maine Technical College and SAD44 Adult Education. The cost is $35 per person. The training is being provided as part of the Basic Bartending course, taught by Larry Risko, currently underway at the Bethel Inn. The server training component is being opened to those employed in area establishments.

Registration is required prior to Nov. 30 (824-2780).

"MARLBORO COUNTRY" by seventh-grader Kate O'Rourke was the winning poster in Telstar Middle School's contest observing the Great American Smoke-Out last week.

MAINE SCHOLARS AT GOULD

Gould Academy recently recognized local students who have been designated Maine Scholars. These are qualified students who receive financial aid grants from a number of named scholarships at the school.

The James D. and Consuelo Z. Alger Scholarship was created for Maine students through a bequest from the late James D. Alger of Bethel. General Alger was a member of the Gould Academy class of 1930 and a trustee of the academy for many years. Students named as Alger Scholars for the 1995-96 school year are: senior Darby Hick-ey of Bryant Pond, junior Amos Hausman-Rogers of Albany, sophomores Elizabeth Kuzyk and Rebecca Fraser of Bethel, and freshmen Shawna Roderick and Sara Paul of Bethel and Brianna Trundy of Rumford.

Senior Jarrod Crockett of Locke Mills is the recipient of the Edmond J. Vachon Scholarship for the current academic year, named in honor of Bethel resident Vachon, headmaster emeritus of Gould Academy. Mr. Vachon served as headmaster from 1959 until his retirement in 1968.

Parker Gray of Newry, a junior, was named as the Joe Roderick Scholar. The scholarship was established in honor of Richmond K. "Joe" Roderick, director of physical education and coach of several sports at Gould Academy from 1942 to 1977.

Senior Bonnie Crocker received the Dawne Christie Shisler Scholarship, established by a gift from Dawne Christie Shisler, a member of Gould's class of 1958, who asked that it be awarded to a student who shows great interest in the musical arts. Crocker, a member of the school's chorus and the women's cappella group, the Chanterelles, starred in last spring's musical production, "The Fantasticks."

Gould Academy grants scholarships to qualified applicants from throughout the United States.

Broadbent
Dear
Pocahontas,
I know that it's the day before Thanksgiving, and I'm supposed to be reflecting on my good fortune and all, but why should I be thankful? My chest hurts from coughing, my head is stuffed, my L-5 disc is inflamed ... probably from the coughing ... and I'm tired of leaning on ice packs!

My mother is depressed because my brother is drinking, so she'll probably get worse and I'll have to go back to Boston and pull her out of the mire again!

My car is so old that I had to borrow Aunt Dot's for a while; that turned messy when her mechanic rotated the tires and caused a slow leak in one ... thank god I didn't break down on the highway as I returned home to Maine in the dark ... alone ... and totally without a working voice!

I owe as gifts or commissioned projects three sets of pilgrims, three sets of santas, two quillows, one quillote, and five painted sweat-shirts! And, because my back is in spasm, I can't sit at the work table longer than twenty minutes at a time!

Meanwhile, Jeffrey is preparing for death: Anna his wife is caring and brave; Anna his mother (Donald's sister) is caring and shaky; and Frankie his precious daughter is Love personified.

That's the sad news of one nephew. Another, down in the "old country" has just checked in to a detox center. (I only that had worked for my brother!) ... and two are in therapy to help them cope with the separation of their parents ... a direct result of the drinking of the aforementioned brother.

On a broader scope, the world is awful. Serbs and Croats and Bosnians massacre each other, Jews assassinate Jews, Chinese destroy Chinese. Fathers die or despair. Mothers wail; children don't eat.

But! ... There is good news ... there is a pony buried in that roomful of manure! A local hockey player reached out to a young cancer patient the other day ... did you see that on the news? And the young Bosnian girl who came to Maine for reconstruction of her leg has reconstructed her life as she cheers the team in her Portland middle school.

Tom and Jayne are doing well in their honeymoon cottage in sunny Florida. He got his L.P.N. license and works on a cardiac unit in the local hospital; she has started a job as counselor/caregiver at a detox/rehab hospital nearby. Their grapefruit trees are laden with fruit.

The pizzamen are sandblasting bricks and ripping down walls in anticipation of tables and chairs, and in-house clients, and increased business. They are once again hopeful.

Here in the hills, the waters have subsided for now ... the brooks are slightly below their banks, the rivers rush but don't flood. Those of us (Union and Methodist) who planned to sing for the rest of you, still plan to do that, but now on the second Friday evening in December. And the good news there is that my currently constricted vocal cords will be able to contribute to the vocal chords of that songfest ... an impossibility had the concert gone on at the appointed hour.

The days have been cloudy of late; that changes the vista on the Flat Road. The foothills outside our windows take on a taupe-to-black aura ... unusual, but pleasing to the eye. The sun pokes through on occasion ... the other day, as the mountains reached up to cradle the old sol for the night, the clouds spread apart, and the sky was awash in brilliant pink-to-purple! What a wonder to behold!

The orange coated men and women tote their rifles through the forest and over the dales in pursuit of the bucks (mostly) or the bears or the birds ... while back on the hillside at the designated preserve known also as our backyard, the doe and her skippers and her yearling munch at intervals with the ruffed grouse and his lady, who would be called a partridge if one of those orange people should "bag" her and cook her.

At the first hint of snow, the cardinals appear at the feeding stations, the grosbeaks decorate the lone birch by the droves; and the snow buntings flit and swoop as one, along the roadside near the edges of the fields. Walter-the-extra-large cat, the one who came for a vacation in May and never left ... that Walter ... sits by the long window or on his side of the fence when he is allowed out ... under supervision. He stalks the birds who know that they are protected by that fence and by us. He races at each whoosh of the wind, ears alert, eyes and head darting in anticipation of that unseen force! He enjoys life in the country.

And it's that "life in the country" which reminds me to be thankful. With its fields and fauna, its hills and mountains, its splendid forests and wondrous waters, it offers a renewable sense of comfort and belonging. The slower pace of everyone's life is good and healthy. The bustle of the city that beckons me each time Muddy needs me is a rude reminder of the quiet that I leave behind and to which I hurry back.

As I roll the pastry for the pies, boil the mince meat, stir the cookies and pack the bags for the Thanksgiving trip, I reflect on the serenity that enfolds me ... and I am pacified. I look forward to the feast with the family ... this time at sister Geri's home, with the two wheelchair parents, Jack's father and Muddy holding court at the long tables, happy to be on turlough from their assisted living facility up the road ... and I dwell only on the positive ... this allows me to be grateful.

Whatever the circumstance, whatever the pain, I remind myself that each event is a chapter in my life story. And as I live the story, I observe, I record, I feel, I digest, I take and I give. In the taking, I allow someone to feel useful and needed ... In the giving, I feel the same. If I give more than I take, I feel enriched and satisfied.

I smile as I look around me at the wonderful workshop that I call kitchen; I tingle with pleasure at the single rose that sits on the counter, a welcome-home gift from my lover and friend, and I reflect again on my fortune ... and because the opportunity to remain here in this pastoral setting with my head filled with pleasant thoughts, wondrous vistas, and joyful noise is something over which I have little or no control ... I have decided to count my blessings daily, count my days blessed, be ever so happy to have days to count, and yes, dear supplicant at the first feast ... I will be forever grateful.

Be good to your people, oh braided one ... give our best regards to John.
Love,
C.B.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

This Unit of Jackson-Silver American Legion Post Auxiliary has been very busy.

On Nov. 5 they held a card and game party which netted $200 donated to Special Olympics. The Auxiliary would like to take this opportunity to thank the people who come each year and help us to support this worthy cause; also the businesses which furnished door prizes. They are: The Village Sampler, Ruthie's, Brooks Bros. and Dan's Car Wash in Bethel; Mollckett Antiques, Ann's Bake Shop and Larry's Garage in Bryant Pond; Bob's Corner Store in Locke Mills. Thanks also to the members who baked the pies which were served to start off the afternoon.

On Veterans Day members took part in the program at the Legion Hall, then some visited the Veterans at Lodgeview Nursing Home, chatted with them and tried to find out what they would like for Christmas. The Unit is busy taking orders for light bulbs on the Christmas trees at the Post grounds, the funds realized to be used for these gifts and those at the Veterans Homes and Togus. Bulbs will be lit on the trees in honor of, or in memory of any veteran and may be ordered for $2 each from members of the Auxiliary. Evanna Davis is in charge of this project. The trees will be lit on Dec. 7 but bulbs may be purchased thru the month of December and will remain lit until February.

A dinner was catered for the Bethel Senior Citizens on Nov. 8 and on Nov. 14 the Musical Supper was quite well attended considering the weather, earning more funds for the generator and supplies for the emergency shelter.

Funds have also been donated to the D.A.R.E. program and to the Chapel of Four Chaplains at Valley Forge.

The Auxiliary cooked the turkeys, purchased by the Post, to help the National Honor Society at Telstar High School in their project of serving a Senior Citizen Thanksgiving dinner on Nov. 19. During National Education Week they also sent cards to all the teachers in SAD44 thanking them for their devotion to the children in our communities and to their profession. Though cards were not sent, the members wish to express thanks to all others who contribute to the total educational experience, for the bus drivers, janitors, cooks, librarians, clerical workers and all others are vitally necessary to the process.

Before their meetings on Nov. 16, Post and Unit members enjoyed a video and talk by Jim Chandler of the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District.

On Nov. 18, the Auxiliary catered a dinner for the Oxford County Retired Teachers.

Future activities include the Oxford County Council Legion and Auxiliary meeting at the Bethel Mundt-Allen Post on Nov. 21 at 7:30. On Dec. 7 the Auxiliary will cater a dinner for the Woodstock/Greenwood Senior Citizens. That evening there will be a regular meeting of the Post and Unit, and the Christmas Tree lighting. The annual Christmas Party will be the following Thursday, Dec. 14, and the dinner with the Lodgeview Veterans will be Dec. 17, at which time their gifts will be distributed.
